Students' Generous Contributions

Top-ranking college by a wide margin, Aquinas heavily oversubscribed its War Chest quota in the campaign staged Nov. 10 to 20. With an assigned quota of $23,200, the college collected $105,682 or 446.85% of the total.

All colleges of the city were assisted to equal or exceed 20 cents for each regis­trant enrolled, full-time student. Aquinas students were asked by hostesses within the college to give $1.00 if they could possibly spare it. The generosity and sincerity of re­sponse is indicated by the average contribution of $1.75 per Tommy. Each contributor received a button to wear proudly.

Aquinas Students Send Tenant Delegates To Catholic Collegiate Congress

Three students from Aquinas, Robert Herrmann, Byron Zeilheck, and Thomas Overkleeft, will journey to Cincinnati by train during the Christ­mas holidays to attend the Catholic Collegiate Congress there, Dec. 27-30. "Victory in War and in Peace" is the theme of the meeting, which is being sponsored by the National Federation of Catholic College Students and the Newman Club Federation.

Two of the Aquinas students will be official voting delegates for the Con­gress, which passes upon the general policy of the N.F.C.C.S. Herrmann has been elected to represent the regional council to serve on the Na­tional Council, which is the central governing board of the N.F.C.C.S.

The N.F.C.C.S. is a student con­­ducted organization which belongs to the National Catholic Welfare Council. The federation was inaugurated five years ago and has experienced rapid growth.

A plan is being prepared which calls for the presentation of all Con­gress topics through the medium of discussions. Students will serve as discussion leaders, and all who attend the Congress will be invited to partici­pate in the discussions.

Singers Rehearse Yuletide Program

The Aquinas College Glee Club is preparing Petry Yout's "Jeu Bambino" and Father Finne's "Nost, Alleluia" for its second public appearance on the Christmas program Dec. 17.

Rehearsals are held every Tuesday at 11 a.m. in Room 103, Orelt Winchester, music education freshman, is in the Club accompanist.

Sister M. Evangelista, director of the Club, announces that the work of the second semester will consist in the preparation of a concert featuring popular, secular, and sacred music. The sacred music will be chosen from the works of the classical polyphonic period.

New Member Joins College Library Staff

Mrs. M. W. Carver, at present libra­rian at the University of Grand Rapids, will join the Aquinas library staff in January, 1943, when the college library moves to its new quarters on Library street, next to Ryerson.

Mrs. Carver comes to Aquinas with a rich background of experience. She was head of the Modern Languages library at the University of Chicago for three years, was reference librarian at Adelbert College at West­ ern Reserve University for ten years. Before going to the U. of G. R., Mrs. Carver was librarian at Marywood academy, 1940-41, coming there from Bay City, Lake Forest, Ill. She substituted for Sister M. Malachy, at Aquinas, during the summer session of 1941.

Christmas Assembly Stars Freshmen in Variety Acts

Glee Club, Upperclassmen Will Furnish

Musical, Mock-Serious Entertainment

A rehearsal that will not be a rehearsal but the real thing will be the chief attraction at the Christmas assembly, Thursday, Dec. 17, at 11 a.m. in the Knights of Columbus council chamber.

Freshmen, who will provide the entertainment, refuse to disclose fully their plans, but the participants in the new leadership of Mary Eline Marin promises to be original and spontaneous.

The serious part of the assembly will include a radio play "There Was No Room in the Inn," written by Joanne Barofsky, and Christ­mas poems by Aline Kolmar, Marian Boynant, and Francis Thompson, with musical accompaniment by Orelt Winchester.

The last half of the freshman pro­gram will be given over to hilarity, when Gerald Witte will direct a mod­ern pantomime version of "The Night Before Christmas." Male upperclass­men will present a dance called "The Frolic of the Christmas Elves." Christmas carols by the glee club, and an exchange of gifts will complete the program.

Dominican Tertiaries Meet Week Earlier in December

Dominican Tertiaries will hold their monthly meeting Monday, Dec. 14, one week earlier than usual. The Rev. Arthur F. Bawkevich, spiritual director, will give a talk to the members. Vespers and compline will be recited before concluding the meeting with Benediction.

Students Rally To Plot Ways, Means Of Speeding War Effort At Aquinas

On Dec. 7, anniversary of the attack on Pearl Harbor, Tommies met to plan ways of helping in the war effort. Phyllis Malwitz, sophomore, was chief instigator of the rally, over which Thomas Overkleeft, sophomore, presided.

Planning Villa Maria Party

Two-Man Squad Appears Before K. of C., Dec. 14

Thomas F. Pattie, debate coach, an­nounces a two-man intra-squad debate to test the first seven freshmen in the Columbuses in their council chamber, Monday, Dec. 14, on the topic "Re­solved: that the United States should form a separate Air Force." Kenneth Marin will defend the affirmative against William Alexander, negative.

The inter-collegiate topic, which Tommies are sending to debate after the Christmas holidays, has been announced as "Resolved: that the United States should form a federal union with powers to tax and regulate commerce, to maintain a navy, and to provide for the entrance of those nations which accept the principle of free trade."

Although planning to meet other opponents, the squad plans to prove it can score against the Columbuses in the first seven freshmen in the city.

The Young and the Immortal

Abounds in Iconic Situations

The tragedy of Isabel Burton’s The Young and the Immortal, (Allan K. Wolfe) is that it doesn’t fully work. A powerful plot and strong characterization are let down by a failure of tone that is implausible and fails to meet the real-life situation. Yet, taken as a whole, the book shows a triumph of grace in a soul that intellect never quite understood and faith never fully accepted.

After separating from a drinking companion of a hobo, Coddington MacArthur mingled with the disreputable element of society at the 1790-1800s. Her spins her practice of her religion, fell in love with a young and outrageously estranged, committed a good number of the sins forbidden by The Decalogues, and after deep suffering, which, however, was not proportionate to the gravity of her offenses, reached the happy ending. Gretchen was not wholly responsible for her waywardness; she lived in a society that was rich in sin and her immorality was modified by the fact that she never lost faith in God.

Polish Christmas Traditions

In the Nativity.

At midnight they all go to Mass, and this is the most beautiful part of Christmas... The people are filled with such joy... The Greater Jew

By Mary Joyce

Before Aaron, the old pauper, could close the door a chill gust of wind had thrown a hall of snow into the upstairs. "I'm sorry to bother you at this time of night," he said. "I must have some money--"

Disgruntled, Aaron surveyed the aftermath of the opened door, thinking, "I shouldn't have let him in--but then there was such an urgent look in his eyes--" He noticed the young man's shabby suit and its frayed cuffs and carefully patched elbow. "I wonder oh, well--"

"What have you for security?" imperiously. "Only this," announced the younger man fumbling in his pocket. "This old ring-- it must be at least two hundred years old--the emerald is very fine, and--" Aaron cut him short.

"I can soon learn that for myself--" but he instantly repented his harshness. After all, he thought, this is Christmas Eve and he was tired. He examined the ring. It was no longer of any value except as an heirloom, although it had once been a jewel of great worth.

"The ring is worthless," he mused aloud. The man's shoulders sagged. "But--" Aaron said hastily, "I can allow you quite a bit for the stone, say fifty dollars?" The man's face lighted like a candle. As Aaron counted off the money the stranger was thinking of his young wife and the child to come.

Aaron saw him to the door. "You must need the money, the tired look on your face--" but if you'd ever celebrate a Polish Christmas--"

Hanankah

Jewish Feast of Dedication

By A. F. Portia

One of eight special feasts, the Feast of Hanukkah, shining brightly in many Jewish homes during the week of Dec. 4-11, 1942, recalls a celebration, dating from 165 B.C., of the eight-day festival in honor of the rededication of the one-time desecrated Temple of Jerusalem.

Life for the Jews in that second century B.C. was not a happy one. But under the valiant leadership of Judas, son of Mattathias, the Maccabees rose victorious over the religious persecution of Antiochus, the king, who had desecrated the holy temple, re-wrapped it in its ancient glory, and rejoiced to God, the cour-geous Jews kindled there a lamp, with a slender wick which miraculously lasted eight days . . . Dot
