Everybody’s story! Everybody’s story! Rise ‘N’ Shine! The big show of the year is in the making, and it’s all yours, ladies and gentlemen—‘tis all yours! The course is of your creation; the production scripts, which were written by Betty Wilson, Susan B. and Margie Zelina, are set in motion unless you just want to be left out. There’s a lot of hard work to do, so take it seriously, and, as John L. Bolek, director of the show, as so many, as possible, and, as possible, be there. Mr. Brink is counting on the complete support of every Aquinas student.

There’s everything from chorus girls to roller skating, from rerolling show that no one will forget. Enthusiastic reports from the ticket committee, under the direction of the Rev. Martin E. D. Garry, S. J., George Hanman, and Noriel Wolf, are telling us that we shall have a full house for each performance.

Publicity and programs for the show are handled by the Lawrentian president, Robert Goralczyk. As he has said, “If there won’t be a man, woman, or child in Grand Rapids, there will be a woman, or child in Grand Rapids” about RISE ‘N’ SHINE!

John Shawhan and Richard Go- ralczyk, publicity chairman, in charge of rerolling show, and show, will be publishing the week’s news, the week’s news, as well as publishing the week’s news, the week’s news.

Announcing that total Aquinas Calendar Drive sales to date in 1958 are $12,000, Father Leo Lyons, project chairman, stated, "Unless all students, alumni, and Aquinas' friends immediately fulfill their responsibilities by selling their own quota of tickets, we will be unable to carry out necessary student

Aquinas Internal Club gives $3000 each to foreign relief and the war dead memorial shrine to Our Lady of Fullness, $3000 to the teachers' association of the College. Aquinas Herald, with an additional $12,250 for apportioned Ragnar

the most tickets during the first period of the drive, were awarded to Trudy Brown,. Robert W.
Thomas; Norman M. <ikiuken Groady, head from 1957; and

Spirit Is Willing

One day last February I heard a fellow remark, ‘I think we ought to call this school “Aquinas University.”’ I won’t deny it was an idea that was not wholly unknown, if only unknowingly named, experienced an upsurge last year. The school spirit of Aquinas is the operation of the Holy Ghost — yes, that same Holy Ghost who theologians say proceeds equally from Father and Son in a gushing forth of Divine Love. Manifestly that’s why this school spirit, so rightly but per­haps not sufficiently, is world-wide and very Dominican. We are called upon to share with others the fruits of our own con­sciousness, the first fruits, of the Catholic Way.

Implications of the slogan for Catholic Book Week

As Catholics we have about as much influence in this country as fleas, and come to think of it, those creatures have more — they make themselves felt! So how about dropping a line to the boys today to help keep up their morals!

Do the student organizations ever follow up their discussions regarding politics? Do they ever write letters to the Daily News or the Traverse City Record-Eagle? You know what the answer is. Until we students commence dropping Vanden­berg pictures, bannering the campus once in a while, and as to how we feel about Federal Aid to Education, more taxes, etc., we might just as well clamp it.

Spilling the beans about this in such a degree is very unwise, as far as our influence in this country as means, and come to think of it, those creatures have more — they make themselves felt! So how about dropping a line to the boys today to help keep up their morals!

Student organizations

Student organizations will be grouped around the striking three-color caption: ‘Read Wisely, Share Truth — a Catholic Way!’

But the over-all memory of my days on the Aquinas staff, from business manager to reporter, is one of invaluable; the responsibility was maturing. To my students willing to assist in the financing, planning, and management of the college newspaper. Read it for a lift!!

REMEMBER IN PRAYER

the soul of Jerome Byrne’s father, who died Jan. 8.

Students who measure their lives in years, what news?

Gerald Van Gessel must get pretty sick and tired of being a yin man to Father Tarrizz and Father Garry. Every time either of them wants to clench a point in theology or ethics class, he asks, “Is that right, Mr. Van Gessel?” What an inane question, since it’s the birth of the Metaphysical Chronicle gives the readers a glimpse of what it will be the most powerful political organ in town tomorrow.

Superior Cage Teams Keep Tommy From Breaking Jinx

Aquinas bowed to a strong Muskegon team, 69-67, and the Tommies outplayed the Calvin hoopers on the floor but could not halt the bucket making of Duane Musgrave, who scored 19 points. In the second half of their basketball schedule with the loss of their star forward, Jimmy Rees, the Tommies suffered from the Techmen's field rating. From the business that they suffered from the Techmen, they didn't have any games, but at least the field rating and astute ball handling by diminutive Babe Reesha and the sharp shooting of Pat Rode, all of this the Tommies found themselves on the long end of a 31-33 score.

In the second half, fate was not so generous. Joe Slivaskow, followed by Jack Rogers and Dick Cassella, entered the game on fouls. Taking advantage of the foul ridden squad, the Indians gnawed away at the Aquinas lead until the game was tied up at 54, with but four minutes to go. Then huge nailed four points from Jack Rogers, who had injured his knee. There was no stopping the Indians as they pumped in 16 quick points to the Tommie lead, which upped the game at 54-56.

High scoring honors went to Grays for the Indians with 20 points, while Lascala tallied 17 points for Aquinas.

Jackson Junior College-gave the Tommies quiet a thrill, Dec. 13, on the Jaycee home floor, 65 to 34. A freshman of the Tommies was stamped by the Indians gnawing away the Tommies, with a 20-point lead, the game being over.
