Gibran Disciple To Speak

LaVerne Lobdell, a disciple of Kahlil Gibran and an ex-convict, will spend a day and evening on the Aquinas campus on October 12. He will talk with students, meet with some classes, and give a presentation. The presentation will include a discussion of the impact of his life from prison to poetry philosophy, and a look at the search for the meaning of life and recite selections from Kahlil Gibran, commenting on the importance of Gibran’s message as it pertains to today’s youth.

LaVerne spent seven years in prison at San Quentin in California and Jackson State in Michigan. During these years, he changed from an incorrigible troublemaker and has many friends among the students and staff.

"I like the kids here very much," says Mariano, "they’re very nice to me. And I like to go to the Aquinas campus and its present students. "I want our present students to be aware of the alumni office (located on the first floor of the Administration building) and feel welcome to stop by anytime. We need several events planned which will involve present students, and we need their interest and support."

Green is no stranger to the campus, because he is an alumnus of Aquinas. He received his BS in 1970, and worked in the Admissions office for two years prior to becoming alumni director. His wife, Mary Lou, is a 71 graduate.

"I want our present students to be aware of this office and its present students. "The Alumni office is not just for former students. "Most students really don’t think ahead that far to the day when they’ll become alumni. But many students have told me that there is a time, when you get out of school and start working at a job, that you really start appreciating what you learned at school. And you become proud, as well as sentimental, about your college.

Green feels that students should be represented on the alumni board. Also, activities such as the varsity-alumni basketball games, a need in keeping students connected to the campus and its present students."

Terry Green, director of Alumni Relations, is assisted by secretary Barbara Daly, regarding their opinions as to how the alumni office can assist students.

Real Estate Offered

by Larry Maiello

Laurence R. Dye is a man whose criminal experiences are helping him in his occupation. No, he isn’t a convicted felon, Dye’s crimes included stealing livestock, breaking and entering. It was in California that Dye encountered a career development program which led him on the road to rehabilitation.

"Today, institutionalism is not the key to the solution," he says. "The key lies in group support, not only from the parent, but the advisors, the advocates and others in the juvenile justice system, "commented Dye. The program involves 90 pairs of advocates who are responsible each month to 9 supervisors. They then meet in pairs of 10 for discussion to change past behavioral patterns.

Dye Speaks On Juvenile Delinquency Program

by Patti Trepkowski

U . r  r p ----------1___________i •

The Sunrise
PUBLISHED BY THE STUDENTS OF AQUINAS COLLEGE

Friday, October 6, 1972

Editorial Director: GARY BEYER

Friday, October 6, 1972

Aquinas College, Grand Rapids, Michigan

The Sunrise Open Today

The SUNRISE invites you to open house in "The SUNRISE office. On the menu, a raffle, an ice cream social, a pie-eating contest. Come any time between 12:00 and 4:00 p.m. today. A Rummage Sale is also planned, so bring some small change.

Let us know what you think about your newspaper. See it at work. Jane Fonda and Tom Hayden prints may be ordered in the office during this time.

INPUT IS WANTED
Come any time between 12:00 and 4:00 p.m. today. A Rummage Sale is also planned, so bring some small change.

For the sake of convenience of those enrolling, each course will be offered in pairs of 10 for discussion to change past behavior patterns.

The SUNRISE CAME THIS MORNING AT:
6:30 AM
Unvarnished SLlbs
Four Letters
by Jim Karam

If you ever go on Hoffmeyer Street and happen to be in agreement with the Sarah W. Cook: $25-$50 FINE FOR LITTERING. I do believe that the residents of St. Louis have reading skills fine tune it up the fact that they have no regard for, or any intentions to keep America Clean. Yet, they will be the first people to complain when G.M. Ford
Chrysler: Dow Chemicals, Consumers and power any other of the environmental policies land, water, and air. St. Louis is not the only city that has pollution. Every city has it. And yet cities don’t pollute people.

Dear Editor,

I'm trying out my new wings . . .

Letters To The Editor
Life Posters Are Insult

To the residents of people's minds which is occurring in the corridors of Aquinas. I am appalled by the so-called "Right to Life" posters, full ofgrammar and sensationalistic. One might overlook their offensiveness if they merely violated common standards of good taste. However, they go far beyond this fundamental level and imply emotional commitment to a cause. I'm criticizing the attempt to sway peoples' opinions with an appeal to emotionalism. Perhaps the intent of these posters is an emotional appeal, due to the recognition that there can be no resolution to this problem in the intellectual realm. I find such appeals thoroughly deceptible.

I'm criticizing the attempt to sway peoples' opinions with an appeal to emotionalism. Perhaps the intent of these posters is an emotional appeal, due to the recognition that there can be no resolution to this problem in the intellectual realm. I find such appeals thoroughly deceptible.

Mr. Fiedler deflated this issue very elegantly in this editor’s section on 8-15-72. I don't believe the residents of St. Louis have reading skills fine tune it up the fact that they have no regard for, or any intentions to keep America Clean. Yet, they will be the first people to complain when G.M. Ford
Chrysler: Dow Chemicals, Consumers and power any other of the environmental policies land, water, and air. St. Louis is not the only city that has pollution. Every city has it. And yet cities don’t pollute people.

I'm trying out my new wings . . .

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor,

I'm trying out my new wings . . .

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor,

I'm trying out my new wings . . .
Filmflam

Woody Films Reuben

by David F. Dean

Woody Allen's new film is called "EVERYTHING YOU ALWAYS KNEW ABOUT SEX" (but were afraid to ask). And now that half my column space is gone, I shall try to be brief. "Sex*" consists of seven unrelated sketches illustrating answers to some of Dr. Reuben's bold-print questions. ... Randall's hilarious Master Control Coordinator. Conversely, one of the sketches falls flat, involving Lou Jacobi as a

---

Balance Is For GOP

by The Young Voters for the President

The Young Voters for the President organization is due to several people on campus. The aim of the organization is an attempt to give the student body a balanced view of the election this fall. The organization has distributed literature on President Nixon, Senator Griffin, and Congressman Ford. "We have canvassed the dorms and I am pleased with the support we have found for the G.O.P. and for the Nixon-Griffin campaigns," said Mike Anteau who was the youngest delegate to the state's Republican Convention.

Anne Petrazee, who was an alternate delegate to Miami this August, sees the trend as one which

---

Album Review: Trilogy Has Wide Selection

by Dave Wester

This is Emerson, Lake, and Palmere's fourth album, and it is well done, solid music with the usual classical overtones that Emerson, Lake, and Palmer have been known for ever since their first album in 1970.

Titled simply "Emerson, Lake, and Palmer," it immediately placed them among the most respected groups in the rock field.

With "Trilogy" they once again prove that they are one of the few groups of musicians around today that can still offer something surprising to the listening public. The selections are alike in the respect that they all offer amazing time changes and excellent musicianship.

Yet, the album is diversified without one cut done in the same style as another. They range from an acoustic ballad, to a Gershwin sounding tune, to a song that includes a bit of "Turkey in the Straw."

From their other three albums, Emerson, Lake, and Palmer have gained the reputation of being perhaps the finest group musically there today. Trilogy can only enhance this reputation.
The Dolphins, the superbowl 12-6. The Untouchables reigned victors of last season, have to be over the Mongers, Chas...

The world's biggest multi-media show.

The Dolphins, the "superbowl" 12-6. The Untouchables reigned victors of last season, have to be over the Mongers, Chas...