American Correspondent Views Role of Nation

It is interesting to see ourselves as others see us. Sometimes it could reveal a new perspective. This holds true in world affairs as well as the political scene. There are few better qualified than Stephen Barber, Washington correspondent of the London Sun Telegraph, to speak on the political democracy we have in this country.

Mr. Barber, who is one of the few Americans who understand and appreciate the political democracy we have in this country, observed that the American scene, but he frequently circled the globe revisiting the world’s vital troubles—spokes. He has made friends at all levels in more than half of the countries of the world.

As a sympathetic observer, Barber discusses the United States’ role and its pitfalls, and the process of integration. There are few better qualified to present this subject than Stephen Barber, Washington correspondent of the London Sun Telegraph.

Mr. Barber illustrated his observations with first-hand experiences of what he reports on the American scene, and he frequently has arranged for the French Club to perform in the Carriage House at 8 p.m. A chorus will open the program with a repertoire of contemporary foreign songs. Several selections from Moller’s plays, “La Malade Imaginaire” and “La Farce Du Cuvier,” will follow the choral performance. The Club will then hold its annual French banquet at 6:30 p.m. in Wege Center. Featured speaker for the dinner will be Mr. Lichter. Mr. Lichter will be the chairman of the French Club's banquet committee.

The German Club will be sponsoring a highly short-subject film in Conference Room I in the Game Room. They will be scheduled before the other events of the evening.

The Art Department Exhibition will draw to an end the Carousel of Arts, April 16-23, 1967.

Dennis Alexander Marks Close of College Ball Career

by Jim Schiffer

Dennis Alexander with one of his most gratifying victories in a Tommie uniform. In that encounter Aquinas toppled rival Calvin College 89–83 before a large and enthusiastic crowd at Watts Auditorium. It was Coach Richard Dornbos’ college coaching debut and Dennis scored 22 points and snared 17 rebounds.

Scoring-wise Alexander’s most productive season was his junior year when he totaled in 622 points for a 26.3 average. He was voted to the Furniture City All-Tournament Teams, was named Most Valuable Player in the Spring Arbor Kiwanis Classic and earned a position on the District 23 NAIA All-District Team.

Dennis proved he could play with best of them as he combined for 58 points in games against major-college foes, Detroit and Xavier. Equally impressive was his 40 points, 20 rebounds effort in a 95–93 homecoming conquest of Marian College.

Alexander was noticeably slowed down this past season with a knee injury, yet he still led the club with his 501 points and 249 rebounds in 25 games. He was again named to the Furniture City and Spring Arbor honor teams and his most prolific scoring night was a 37 point barrage against Purdue-Calumet.

A business major, Dennis currently is doing his practice teaching at Forest Hills High School and next fall plans to enter the teaching profession or to seek employment with the Civil Service.

There are a few uncertain and certain happenings in Dennis Alexander’s future.

The “uncertain” concerns his career in professional basketball. The St. Louis Hawks have expressed an interest in the Tommie great, while writers in Chicago affirmed that the Cincinnati Royals are looking at him.

The “certain” event in Alexander’s life will be his wedding to Linda Jones this August. Coach Richard Dornbos calls the “finest player we’ve had — without a doubt.”

Most people will agree with him.
