Holocaust survivor recounts past to Aquinas students

By Michael Buck newspaper

E ve Rider has been putting together her Holocaust experiences for the last 50 years. "(The Nazi doctors) at least psychologically tried to erase my memory," she said. "Now I remember places and years and I have to put it all together. Sometimes it takes years, sometimes it takes only one sentence." Rider, a native German, told her story to the Aquinas community on Tuesday, March 28. In addition to speaking in front of students and faculty, Rider also visited a sustainable business classroom and sat in on a panel discussion held by the Health and Business Studies Center. Sustainable Business program chairman Matthew Tueth believes her influence on a healthy new design strategy for a sustainable world is enormous.

In addition to speaking to the Aquinas community in a lunch-time talk at the PAG, Rider also fielded questions from students about her experiences in the concentration camp on April 22,1945. "I didn't put it together that it wasn't a hospital," she said.

"I had no idea what it was concentation camp," she said. "I had no idea it was Sachsenhausen," she said. "I never knew what was happening," she said.

"I didn't feel it was a concentration camp," she said.

Growing influence: Nationally renowned speaker Janine Benyus speaks to the Aquinas community on Tuesday, March 28. In addition to speaking in front of students and faculty, Benyus also visited a sustainable business classroom and sat in on a panel discussion held by the Health and Business Studies Center. Sustainable Business program chairman Matthew Tueth believes her influence on a healthy new design strategy for a sustainable world is enormous.

Sustainable Business at Aquinas

Sustainable Business is a non-traditional strategy that concurrently builds profitability and economic stability, restores the health of natural systems, and promotes prosperous communities. The movement began in Europe only 15 years ago and carries on a variety of themes. One of the first organizations in Michigan, and one of those who introduced the Sustainable Business major to the Aquinas campus, is the Heartside District of Grand Rapids, along with 10 to 12 group members and 100 students participating each year. "I don't know what it was concentration camp," she said.

The Outstanding Women awards were given out last Wednesday in a packed Holmdene board room. Women's Studies director Susan Haworth-Hoeppner said there were countless applications, ending with 89 nominations. "The selection process was incredibly difficult," Haworth-Hoeppner said. "There were a lot of incredible women nominated." Photos taken by Michael Buck.

I n order to begin her day, Aquinas College senior Clorice Convello always has her cup of coffee. "I might just be subconscious," she said, "but I really need a cup of coffee just to be productive."

Like many young Americans, Ms. Convello has become dependent on caffeine. For an increasing amount of students, caffeine is used to jump start the morning.

Caffeine is fully absorbed by the stomach and small intestine within 45 minutes of intake according to Wikipedia.org. The University of Michigan Health found the use of caffeine can lead to sleep deprivation, irritability, nervousness, headaches, heartburn, extra heartbeat and the inability to concentrate. Found in many substances like coffee, tea, soft drink, energy drinks, bars, powders and sodas, one of the newest sources of caffeine is through television shows. "It might just be subconscious," Ms. Convello said, "but that warm cup of java is something I cannot do without to start my day."

The Alcoholic and Drug History History notes that the abuse of caffeine with energy drinks that contain caffeine like Red Bull, we give consumers the illusion that they are less drunk than they actually are.

Mark Levin-Sous-Fantimtig of the Federal University of Itap, Brazil did a recent study on the effects of Red Bull and alcohol versus the effects of drinking alcohol alone. In the study she discovered that in a test of motor skills the volunteers who consumed Red Bull and alcohol performed worse than the ones who drank the alcohol alone. In addition, the Red Bull and alcohol consumers believed they were more sober than their test friends stated.

The average American consumes 300mg of caffeine a day. Clearly, this caffeine comes in the form of coffee and tea however, many Americans also consume the stimulant through product placement. Through product placement, the use of caffeine is not uncommon and is seen in most programs on television. "Caffeine is fully absorbed by the stomach and small intestine within 45 minutes of intake," said the Beverage Digest. "In the United States the sales of caffeine like Red Bull, can give manufacturers 61 percent present in 2015, bringing the annual sales to about $5 billion according to the Beverage Digest."

Dressed in a pair of baggy jeans, wearing a beanie and a black t-shirt, the DJ spins the turntables, creating a lively atmosphere. People are dancing in the background, and a band is performing on stage. The music is energetic, with a mix of genres that keep everyone on their feet.

The event is a fundraiser for a local charity, with proceeds going towards supporting education and youth programs. A raffle is being held to raise additional funds, with prizes such as concert tickets and signed posters from popular artists.

Guests enjoy a variety of food and drinks, including a diverse selection of beers, wines, and cocktails. Local restaurants and food vendors set up booths, offering their best dishes to cater to the crowd's tastes.

The atmosphere is festive and inclusive, with people of all ages and backgrounds coming together to celebrate music, community, and a worthy cause.

The Editor's Desk

If you've been working on the front page of The Saint recently, you may have noticed a slight change in the design. The change is subtle, yet significant, and it's a reflection of our commitment to creating a newspaper that is clear, clean, and consistent. This approach is not only aesthetically pleasing but also practical, as it allows us to focus on the most important news and events that are happening on campus.

Working under the concept that a publication should be entertaining and journalistically-correct, we've made some adjustments to the layout. These changes are part of our ongoing effort to improve the overall quality of our content. We believe that a newspaper should be a tool for education, and we strive to make sure that every issue is informative and engaging.

As we move forward, we hope to continue to enhance our design while maintaining the high standards that our readers have come to expect. We are committed to providing a platform for students to express their ideas and opinions, and we encourage you to participate in this process by sharing your thoughts and feedback.

Thank you for your continued support of The Saint, and we look forward to serving you in the years to come.
The king of residences hall

Living on the campus is preferable to living in Frisco Hall, I know, because I could never imagine my roommates as intellectual beings. Of course, that's probably

Who are the most snobby, upperclassmen? I've heard different stories from different people. Some say it's the seniors, while others say it's the juniors. I personally believe it's the seniors because they have been around campus for so long and are very set in their ways. The only thing I can say for sure is that the seniors are the ones who are the most cliquish.

And what is the sexiest SS? I think the seniors are the most sexy, but I'm not sure. The juniors are definitely the most provocative, but I'm not sure if that's a good thing or not.

The first thing I noticed about the seniors was their hair. They all had really long hair, which I thought was really cool. The juniors, on the other hand, all had short hair, which I thought was really weird.

The other thing I noticed about the seniors was their clothes. They all had really casual clothes, which I thought was really nice. The juniors, on the other hand, all had really formal clothes, which I thought was really weird.

The third thing I noticed about the seniors was their personalities. They all had really good personalities, which I thought was really nice. The juniors, on the other hand, all had really bad personalities, which I thought was really weird.

In conclusion, I think the seniors are the most sexy, but I'm not sure if that's a good thing or not. The juniors are definitely the most provocative, but I'm not sure if that's a good thing or not.

The Florida Marlins could soon be moving to San Antonio, according to an Associated Press report.

The Florida Marlins could soon be moving to San Antonio, according to an Associated Press report. The report said the team is in talks with the Texas Rangers about a possible move to the Lone Star State. The Florida Marlins could move to San Antonio in as little as a year, the report said. The move would be a financial windfall for the city of San Antonio, which has been trying to land a major league team for years. The report said the Marlins are discussing a deal with the Rangers to move to San Antonio in the next year or two. The deal would cost the Marlins $250 million in renovations to the stadium.

Last weekend, the Aquinas baseball team finished off a double-heady trip to Grand Rapids, Michigan, with a 9-2 win over the Grand Rapids Community College Saints. The Saints ar

Clemson held a similar record in 2005, when they reached the College World Series.

The Tigers take on Texas tonight at 8:00. The Tigers are currently the third worst team in Major League Baseball with a 21-35 record. The Tigers have been working since last fall to help the residents of the Gulf Coast recover from Hurricane Katrina. Both quarterbacks are Mississippi natives, and both will battle to stay above the .500 mark. Harrington asked to either be traded or released by the Lions, which was why he asked for the release of quarterback at the price of a sixth round draft pick. Harrington was picked third overall by the Lions in the 2002 NFL Draft. The Detroit Lions have made it clear that they want to trade Harrington, but they have not found a team that is willing to offer the price they are asking. Harrington has been the object of trade talks for the past few weeks, and it is possible that he could be moved before the season begins.

For the occasion, the Tigers take on Texas tonight at 8:00.
