Severe weather causes panic

The weather was a factor in the men's soccer game against Concordia Tuesday night in the Cornerstone Fieldhouse.

The men's soccer team dominated in the first half of the game with a 3-0 lead over Concordia. However, the Saints were unable to hold that lead in the second half, losing 3-2 in overtime.

Despite the loss, the team has yet to lose a game this season. "It's frustrating to lose after leading for so long," said senior forward Brian Beres, who scored all three goals in the first half.

The team's next game is against Davenport Thursday at 4 p.m. at the Cornerstone Fieldhouse.

Duncan said that the search process will begin with a visit from the Board of Directors. He added that the search committee will be made up of members from various backgrounds.

"We will have a full spectrum of members," Duncan said. "We want to ensure we have a diverse pool of candidates."

People who speak different languages, have different customs and practice different religions have long been a part of the fabric of the United States. The issue of immigration has been a topic of debate for many years, with different groups of immigrants facing unique challenges. In the 1800s, it was Irish and Jewish. In the 1900s, it was Chinese and Cubans. Today, it is Latin Americans.

Several Latin-American immigrants interviewed for the Times article said they feel victimized by the system. In fact, many of the people who came to the United States seeking a better life are now working in restaurants, factories and other low-paying jobs to make ends meet. The problem is that many of them are undocumented immigrants who are afraid of being deported.

Many Protestant Americans even question whether these immigrants should be considered the future of the United States, or if they should be sent back to their home countries. In the 1800s, it was Irish, Jewish, Italians and Chinese who came to the United States to find work. Now, it is Mexican, Central American and South American who are coming to the United States to join the growing Hispanic population.

According to a recent report by the Pew Hispanic Center, there are now more than 37 million Hispanics in the United States, making up 12% of the total population. This is a significant increase from the 1970s, when Hispanics made up only 3% of the population.

President Bush has been working to pass an immigration reform bill, which would provide a path to citizenship for many undocumented immigrants. However, the bill has faced strong opposition from some Republican lawmakers, who believe it would be too lenient.

The U.S. Congress has not passed an immigration reform bill since 2006, when the Senate passed a bill that was never brought to a vote in the House. The issue of immigration is likely to come to the forefront again in the 2008 election.

In the meantime, many students are struggling to find work and make ends meet. They are often working long hours in low-paying jobs, and many are afraid to seek help for fear of being deported.

In conclusion, the issue of immigration is a complex one, and it will take time to find a solution. However, it is important that we continue to work towards a comprehensive immigration reform bill that is fair to both immigrants and Americans.

HOMECOMING 2006

Students, faculty, alumni ready to let loose during a week-long celebration of drinks, games, and camaraderie.

by Lauren Oehlers

It’s that time of year again — cooler weather, falling leaves, and Autumn空气中洋溢着一股浓厚的节日气氛。As you enjoy all of these activities, yes, it’s homecoming week and there are a lot of new and exciting events going on around the AQ community.

Now to the homecoming schedule this year is the "Block Party" taking place Wednesday at 5:30 p.m. in the Regnum Field. In addition to the usual hubbub, field, and chow, WACF will be present providing music to enjoy during the party. For those of you that can’t make it to this fun event, we will still report back next week on the complete information (as you have a football game on your mind, too!)

So, back to the list of events... The list contains the following events: Saturday Night Promenade, Concert, and Parade. Sunday will bring the "Block Party" back to the AQ community.

Other spiritual events include a parade dress-up day at "Block Party." 8th grade girls dress up on Tuesday and on Friday students are encouraged to proudly sport their AQ colors. Friday night at 7 p.m. is the Friday Night "Block Party" at "Block Party." The fun continues in full force Saturday, where "Block Party" events will be held throughout the day. The "Block Party" is the perfect place to celebrate the AQ traditions.

Penne’s fierce performance defies laws

By Patrick Thompson

(U.W.) WASHINGTON

Though September is generally a bit early to begin Oscar season, things are heating up in the world of movies. The movie “All the King’s Men” has received much critical acclaim for its intense performances and powerful storyline, and now Penne is stepping up to the plate and taking on this film’s most challenging role.

Penne was cast as the young, idealistic lawyer, Jack Burden, in the film. She was initially hesitant about taking on the role, as she had never played a character with so much depth and emotion. However, with the guidance of her director, William Irwin, Penne was able to bring a new level of intensity and authenticity to her performance.

Penne’s portrayal of Burden is not only captivating, but it also highlights her range as an actress. From the影片’s opening scenes, where Penne is shown struggling to make ends meet, to the climactic moments where she faces off against the powerful governor, Charles Stark (Jack Nicholson), Penne delivers a performance that will leave audiences in awe.

In addition to her acting skills, Penne’s physicality and dedication to her craft shine through in the film. She underwent a significant physical transformation to play Burden, and her hard work paid off in the final product. Penne’s performance is not only a testament to her talent, but it also serves as a reminder of the power of storytelling and the importance of embracing our innermost fears and desires.

Penne’s performance in “All the King’s Men” has already received critical praise from critics and audiences alike. Many are calling it her best performance to date, and it is clear that Penne is on the cusp of a major breakthrough in her career. With this powerful performance, Penne is sure to make a name for herself in the industry and solidify her place as one of the most talented actresses of her generation.

Despite youthful frolics and dances, both the men's and women's golf teams have high spirits as their seasons near its end.

Both teams have experienced outstanding performances from individuals while fighting to stay in the middle of the pack in their conferences.

"This season was all about the past couple," men's coach Tom Gunn said. "Believe it or not, we were one of the top teams - this season we were fighting to stay in a middle-of-the-pack position.

"Guys know coming into the season that we had his mark on us and that it's going to take us a while to get it over the net during Saturday's 3-0 win against Davenport.

"The winning goal came late in the game, as midfielder Rebecca Underwood hit out during the second half. "I knew the team had it in them," Underwood said. "I just wanted to get it over the net so we could win.

"I'm really proud of our team - we didn't give up and continued to push forward," Gunn said. "This is the first time in a while we've fought hard on both ends of the ball against Concordia's Sarah McLaren."
