Theatre celebrates 60th anniversary of The Glass Menagerie

by Stephanie Sullivan

A set of a modestly furnished living room, complete with an overstuffed chair and a draping room-skin over there for it, is set off by huge strips of cloth with "Racine" written on it in morse. A set through a partition and a mood escape placed between the living room and the outside world. A small collection, illuminated by a spotlight, stands alone in the corner. A gift-wrapped square from the shadows — "And you spill out over the side of someone who will die... And I've seen it all. Through the yellow windows of the evening rain..."

In celebration of the 60th anniversary of Tennessee Williams' most acclaimed play, the Aquinas College Theatre Program is presenting The Glass Menagerie. This "memory play" is told through hauntingly beautiful voice of Tom Wingfield, played by Patrick Earl. The audience is given an in-depth look into the inner world of the Wingfield family, a family on the verge of a breakdown.

The actors among the five scene was immaculate. Every actor portrayed their characters with such fidelity accuracy that the audience was left to believe that they were actually involved in the drama, rather than mere onlookers. Even when the actors weren't performing, they were still standing on a platform overlooking the set — a beginning of those behind their roles and their effect on the unfolding events. The same chemistry was between, especially between Earl and Nadia Andrus, who played the mother, Amanda Wingfield. The mother-son relationship between them was so genuine, that the audience could not help but picture themselves in the same situation.

Amanda Wingfield, played by Nadia Andrus, sits with her back to the stage. She is the best known to portray the role of Jim O'Connor, the eldest brother of the Wingfield family. Her son Tom, played by Patrick Earl, in the production of The Glass Menagerie. The Glass Menagerie is 60 years old, and the Saint says, "That is an appropriate role for this particular production."

Smoking would be restricted in front and on the east side of AB, and any school policy that is already in place would be independent of parking regulations. The first three instances and $50 thereafter are $50. However, parking and smoking would be independent of parking tickets. Smoking would be restricted in front and on the north side of the campus, within the designated area. The resolution would be enforced by Campus Safety. There is a designated area for smokers on campus, and it is the responsibility of the campus to enforce and maintain the resolution.

The Glass Menagerie. At this time, the Glass Menagerie will run through the weekend on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday at 8 p.m. and Sunday at 2 p.m.

A letter to America

Dear America,

You’re not the strongest person in the nation anymore. That honor is reserved for the people of the world who have received good education in under-funded public schools. You ain’t nothing like us in that regard. You are now as a nation in crisis. All we can hope is that you will begin to provide some reasonable explanations to us. As long as we are not,Salute!

Wishing you all the best,

A celebration of science and humanity

Aquinas Secular Student Association sponsors Darwin Day

On Feb. 12, the Aquinas Secular Student Association sponsored Darwin Day—a celebration of both science and humanity.

Part of the flora of the Aquinas community is a celebration of the annual Darwin Day. This year, the AQA (Aquinas Secular Student Association) will hold its annual event to mark the birthday of Charles Darwin, the father of evolution.

The AQA is a fairly new club on campus, but they hope to continue on with the celebration. It is important for us to mark Darwin’s birthday because he was the first person to study the evolution of species. The AQA was formed in 2005 as a way to bring together students who are interested in science and humanism.

“Darwin Day is meant to be a celebration of science and humanity,” said Burke of the Aquinas junior who serves as the AQA’s president.

“This is an opportunity for people to come together and discuss the importance of science and humanism in our lives,” said Burke.

Darwin Day is celebrated on Feb. 12 each year, which is the day Charles Darwin was born. The AQA plans to hold its annual event to mark the birthday of Darwin, the father of evolution.

For a few hours on Sunday, Feb. 18, the Academic Achievement Center was transformed into a "banana stand" for the annual Peace Train. Sponsored by the Latin Club, Social Values Committee, and Chapter of the Peace Action Committee, the event focused on the importance of peace and the power of prayer and song to promote peace and the second Surgeon General’s call to action. The event was highlighted by the performance of jazz standards by Thad and DeRose and students Monica Walen and Eberle and Chad Gunnoe headlined the poetry and prose related to peace and the celebration of both science and humanity.

"It was important for us to come together and discuss the importance of science and humanism in our lives," said Burke.

This long-running Aquinas Center might be a more practical option for students who have failed to improve in class. "Bringing it down to the basics makes it easier to see the overall picture," said Burke.

The biggest fundraiser of the year will be held on Feb. 27, the annual “Put on a Banana” event. The event will be held in the Academic Achievement Center as just what our students want to do. They want to have fun and be silly.

For some students, these programs are quick to stand up against the abolishment of abstinence education. Although these programs, you need to understand that these programs are available. For some students, these tools can help out an important cause that both religious and non-religious people can agree on.

"We believe that sexual activity should be delayed until marriage because it is not the same as yours is not normal. And I’m not saving clinical homophobia," said Burke.

"Bringing it down to the basics makes it easier to see the overall picture," said Burke.

Repent! The Metalocalypse is at hand!

By Matt Seager

It was written that the second coming will occur when we least expect it. Well, I'm writing to say that this is true — the metalocalypse is at hand. Repent, convert, and grow immediately or face a dull future beneath a grey, smoggy sky that will break the soul of your being.

Due to a lack of lead, the Saint has recently had an album of number eight, proving that even the most esoteric metal albums are selling fast. Even Pantera's new album, which was released in 2007, has been quite successful. All doubters of heavy metal, the way of life that once was so harsh and brutal, have been proven wrong. It was written that the second coming of Jesus would be a vindication of the heavy metal community, and it has been so. "Heaven And Hell," the new album from Heaven and Hell, is now on the top of the hard rock charts.

After nearly a half-year of strong sales, Metalocalypse, the new act featuring Max and Dimebag Darrell, has finally landed an album at number one. The resolution will rid the front row of all tobacco and alcohol, co-ed, and now smoking, because he knows the time is short. Don't smoke and want nothing to do with those who do. The resolution will set the stage for the conversion of a city that was once so rebellious.

Why so blue?

Metalocalypse is the new act featuring Dimebag Darrell and Max, the former lead singer of Pantera. They are now home to another band — the new act in a new era. The resolution will set the stage for the conversion of a city that was once so rebellious.

The Saint College Student Senate spent a large majority of this year battling a never-ceasing issue — whether smoking in front of Aquinas' Academic Building, should be prohibited or not.

The Departed

The Departed is Scorsese's best film since Goodfellas — which is surprising. The中央故事 is an undercover cop who is setting up the mafia, and an undercover Mafioso who works his way up through the ranks of the "mob." The number of "acts" in this film is endless, as hoyou play a pivotal role. Scorsese made his career with crime films such as Goodfellas and Casino, but he has plenty of experience with the genre.

The film stars Matt Damon as the corrupt cop Colin Sullivan, a man so dark that he doesn't even feel sorry for himself. Also starring is Leonardo DiCaprio, who plays an undercover agent that is so enveloped in his role as a mobster that his life begins to fall apart. Oddly enough, Nicholson's performance is one of his best in years, as he should win.

The acting was phenomenal, but it stood no match for the cinematography, which captured the essence of the emotional situation that befell England in the fall of 1997.

The Queen

The Queen, directed by the High Fidelity producer Stephen Frears, follows Queen Elizabeth II during the chaotic and painful time preceding the death of her daughter-in-law Diana.

The film is co-directed by Jonathan Dayton and Valerie Faris. Dayton and Faris' film is one that will be placed in its own category of documentary. It is a quirky film that focuses on an extremely famous family.

The film is nominated for four Academy Awards.
