Viva la Roma!

The duo strikes again

Residence Life updates • Staff Writer Doug Seites takes you to school

Wednesday, November 18, 2009
Volume 29, Issue 6
world.Aquaint.com

Aquinas students are to see in Italy with 10 of Aquinas' their Spring Breaks traveling through

Professor of History, was the advisor own studying within Rome's borders.

new process for class registration. 164

Europe which included Rome. During not able to sign up for a certain class, he/she mimics the process to register today.

paper version.

of Academic Advising, the online services. If the student is able to "get a quicker answer" when complete if you know which classes you signing up for classes. If the student is apply for their classes quickly and not also to Catholic Studies and minors as well as the general

Aquinas student population. •

International Studies

Director Joelle Baldwin

"With the addition of the Catholic Studies program, the focus narrowed to establishing a program in Rome that would be beneficial to Catholic Studies minors as well as the general Aquinas student population."

program. Rome through the St. Thomas More program.

And did Piotrowski had contacts

Thomas More College of Liberal Arts. He hosts students from various Catholic schools throughout America and inquiries if having Aquinas students would be possible, and it was.

Then last year he talked with President Chuck Gunnarson and Joelle Baldwin, Director of International Programs, about sending students to Rome through the St. Thomas More program.

though the original intent was to safely send Catholic Studies students to Rome, they all agreed that the program should be open to everyone. The program occurring straight through the Rome International Program. Until then, the advisors would still use the St. Thomas More Liberal Arts College.

Up until going in Rome, students will have opportunities to see credits in these strengths others.

Theo St. Paul's writing to find the deeper meaning of salvation.

Humanities students will study authors and works of art through a variety of time periods to deepen their understanding of the European culture.

Writing students will explore a focus narrowed to establishing a program in Rome that would be beneficial to Catholic Studies minors as well as the general Aquinas student population."

program should be open to everyone.

retropective examination of how poetry has deepened the understanding of nature and language.

• Arts students will immerse themselves in the art of Rome, Latin, Catholicism and the city itself.

• Humanities-students will study the arts of the renaissance period in a variety of time periods to deepen their understanding of the European culture.

• Agriculture-students will engage in a hands-on experience for the study of agriculture in Tuscany and use these arts in place of outdoor courses.

• Theology- a journey will be taken through the Villa Serenella study center, only five miles from Vatican City, on the grounds of the Monastery of Saint Monestry.

• Writing- students will explore a

newest exhibit

Ron and Miriam Peterson explain their

Conversations PAGE 5

Collaborative artists and faculty members

Ron and Miriam Peterson explain their

Residence Life updates • Staff Writer Doug Seites takes you to school

Students will be able to register for classes in the comfort of their own home.

"The hope is that we are going to do it for all undergraduate students in the future as well. We have been successful enough to know how to make it go more smoothly," said Meeker.

Meeker stated that students are also able to "get a quicker answer" when signing up for classes. If the student is not able to sign up for a certain class, he/she is notified right away and is able to make a decision to sign up for another class at that time.

The new system will give priority depending on class level and does not allow for a student to sign up for a class without having the correct prerequisites. "It's displaying students and advisors to prerequisites, which may go on a downward, but it is an encouraging thing up," said Meeder.

"Once you have entered your classes into the computer it will let you know if you meet the requirements to each class and will let you continue if your profile is ready. That was pretty smooth, however, the application process could not be avoided, we have to "play the game" to work it out," said Lodewyk.

The addition of faculty members, including Krista Haata-Catlin, Jeff McAlister, Deb Spry, Ron Sorens, Betty Smith Banks and Joe Spencer, were randomly chosen to try out the new system. However, of the 246 students chosen for the task, only 29 decided to use the program.

Meeder partially attributes the low numbers to the fact that many seniors applied which could not be resolved, so the advisor would have to walk all over campus. I feel that without the correct prerequisites. Rome for the study of agriculture in Tuscany and use these arts in place of outdoor courses.

• Theology- a journey will be taken through the Villa Serenella study center, only five miles from Vatican City, on the grounds of the Monastery of Saint Monestry.

• Writing- students will explore a

Theo St. Paul's writing to find the deeper meaning of salvation.

Humanities students will study authors and works of art through a variety of time periods to deepen their understanding of the European culture.

Writing- students will explore a focus narrowed to establishing a program in Rome that would be beneficial to Catholic Studies minors as well as the general Aquinas student population."

program should be open to everyone.

retropective examination of how poetry has deepened the understanding of nature and language.

• Arts students will immerse themselves in the art of Rome, Latin, Catholicism and the city itself.

• Humanities-students will study the arts of the renaissance period in a variety of time periods to deepen their understanding of the European culture.

• Agriculture-students will engage in a hands-on experience for the study of agriculture in Tuscany and use these arts in place of outdoor courses.

• Theology- a journey will be taken through the Villa Serenella study center, only five miles from Vatican City, on the grounds of the Monastery of Saint Monestry.

• Writing- students will explore a

newest exhibit

Ron and Miriam Peterson explain their

Conversations PAGE 5

Collaborative artists and faculty members

Ron and Miriam Peterson explain their

Residence Life updates • Staff Writer Doug Seites takes you to school

Students will be able to register for classes in the comfort of their own home.

"The hope is that we are going to do it for all undergraduate students in the future as well. We have been successful enough to know how to make it go more smoothly," said Meeker.

Meeker stated that students are also able to "get a quicker answer" when signing up for classes. If the student is not able to sign up for a certain class, he/she is notified right away and is able to make a decision to sign up for another class at that time.

The new system will give priority depending on class level and does not allow for a student to sign up for a class without having the correct prerequisites. "It's displaying students and advisors to prerequisites, which may go on a downward, but it is an encouraging thing up," said Meeder.

"Once you have entered your classes into the computer it will let you know if you meet the requirements to each class and will let you continue if your profile is ready. That was pretty smooth, however, the application process could not be avoided, we have to "play the game" to work it out," said Lodewyk.

The addition of faculty members, including Krista Haata-Catlin, Jeff McAlister, Deb Spry, Ron Sorens, Betty Smith Banks and Joe Spencer, were randomly chosen to try out the new system. However, of the 246 students chosen for the task, only 29 decided to use the program.

Meeder partially attributes the low numbers to the fact that many seniors applied which could not be resolved, so the advisor would have to walk all over campus. I feel that without the correct prerequisites. Rome for the study of agriculture in Tuscany and use these arts in place of outdoor courses.

• Theology- a journey will be taken through the Villa Serenella study center, only five miles from Vatican City, on the grounds of the Monastery of Saint Monestry.

• Writing- students will explore a

newest exhibit

Ron and Miriam Peterson explain their

Conversations PAGE 5

Collaborative artists and faculty members

Ron and Miriam Peterson explain their

Residence Life updates • Staff Writer Doug Seites takes you to school

Students will be able to register for classes in the comfort of their own home.

"The hope is that we are going to do it for all undergraduate students in the future as well. We have been successful enough to know how to make it go more smoothly," said Meeker.

Meeker stated that students are also able to "get a quicker answer" when signing up for classes. If the student is not able to sign up for a certain class, he/she is notified right away and is able to make a decision to sign up for another class at that time.

The new system will give priority depending on class level and does not allow for a student to sign up for a class without having the correct prerequisites. "It's displaying students and advisors to prerequisites, which may go on a downward, but it is an encouraging thing up," said Meeder.

"Once you have entered your classes into the computer it will let you know if you meet the requirements to each class and will let you continue if your profile is ready. That was pretty smooth, however, the application process could not be avoided, we have to "play the game" to work it out," said Lodewyk.

The addition of faculty members, including Krista Haata-Catlin, Jeff McAlister, Deb Spry, Ron Sorens, Betty Smith Banks and Joe Spencer, were randomly chosen to try out the new system. However, of the 246 students chosen for the task, only 29 decided to use the program.

Meeder partially attributes the low numbers to the fact that many seniors applied which could not be resolved, so the advisor would have to walk all over campus. I feel that without the correct prerequisites. Rome for the study of agriculture in Tuscany and use these arts in place of outdoor courses.

• Theology- a journey will be taken through the Villa Serenella study center, only five miles from Vatican City, on the grounds of the Monastery of Saint Monestry.

• Writing- students will explore a

newest exhibit

Ron and Miriam Peterson explain their

Conversations PAGE 5

Collaborative artists and faculty members

Ron and Miriam Peterson explain their

Residence Life updates • Staff Writer Doug Seites takes you to school

Students will be able to register for classes in the comfort of their own home.

"The hope is that we are going to do it for all undergraduate students in the future as well. We have been successful enough to know how to make it go more smoothly," said Meeker.

Meeker stated that students are also able to "get a quicker answer" when signing up for classes. If the student is not able to sign up for a certain class, he/she is notified right away and is able to make a decision to sign up for another class at that time.

The new system will give priority depending on class level and does not allow for a student to sign up for a class without having the correct prerequisites. "It's displaying students and advisors to prerequisites, which may go on a downward, but it is an encouraging thing up," said Meeder.

"Once you have entered your classes into the computer it will let you know if you meet the requirements to each class and will let you continue if your profile is ready. That was pretty smooth, however, the application process could not be avoided, we have to "play the game" to work it out," said Lodewyk.

The addition of faculty members, including Krista Haata-Catlin, Jeff McAlister, Deb Spry, Ron Sorens, Betty Smith Banks and Joe Spencer, were randomly chosen to try out the new system. However, of the 246 students chosen for the task, only 29 decided to use the program.

Meeder partially attributes the low numbers to the fact that many seniors applied which could not be resolved, so the advisor would have to walk all over campus. I feel that without the correct prerequisites. Rome for the study of agriculture in Tuscany and use these arts in place of outdoor courses.

• Theology- a journey will be taken through the Villa Serenella study center, only five miles from Vatican City, on the grounds of the Monastery of Saint Monestry.

• Writing- students will explore a

newest exhibit

Ron and Miriam Peterson explain their

Conversations PAGE 5

Collaborative artists and faculty members

Ron and Miriam Peterson explain their have experienced financial hits that not be on a Christmas tree surrounded newspaper are growing by the week Monica Rischiotto will leave many parents unable to however, the focus of Christmas will drowning as this may sound, the idea refrain from asking. Christmas shopping. and arrived 2 days later than expected I'm screwed." sister, Margie, whispered into my ear, Nothing fancy, but something that with Celine Dion providing the back-Cinderella goes on stage at the Metro

By Dan Broderick

O ne was more surprised than me when they announced their musical reunion, or rather their album of brand new music featuring characters: Oliver Platt stars as the bad guy, George Segal as the old guy. Amanda Peet is... there. Swell Season goes melancholy with Strict Joy

By Dave Hensley

Swell Season goes melancholy with Strict Joy. Their performance this weekend drew large numbers that packed the stage while the orchestra accompanies the music. The only drawback is that, many of their vocalists (including the fabulous and even sporadic rhythm that is the Orchestra's status as a premier part of the Grand Rapids music scene), are utilized to elevate the accomplishment to the level of the music. "Well, I wanted to do that," Emmerich told Notter. "And nobody was more surprised than me when they announced their musical reunion, or rather their album of brand new music featuring characters: Oliver Platt stars as the bad guy, George Segal as the old guy. Amanda Peet is... there. Swell Season goes melancholy with Strict Joy.

For their first album, which featured "Wrong" and "Fantasy Man," but is missing one was more surprised than me when they announced their musical reunion, or rather their album of brand new music featuring characters: Oliver Platt stars as the bad guy, George Segal as the old guy. Amanda Peet is... there. Swell Season goes melancholy with Strict Joy.

I

The Grand Rapids Symphony, in association with the Grand Rapids Hispanic Chamber of Commerce, has announced the winners of this year’s "Music in the Parks: Symphonic Circle of Colaboration-a Success" contest. The contest was open to all high school students in the Grand Rapids area who are interested in music education. The winners were selected based on their skills in composition, arrangement, and performance.

The grand prize winner was a student from Millennium High School, who received a $500 scholarship. The second place winner was a student from Grand Rapids Community College, who received a $250 scholarship. The third place winner was a student from West Catholic High School, who received a $100 scholarship.

The contest was sponsored by the Grand Rapids Hispanic Chamber of Commerce, The Grand Rapids Symphony, and the Grand Rapids Public Schools.

The winners will be announced on the Grand Rapids Symphony’s website at www.grsymphony.org. The contest was open to all high school students in the Grand Rapids area who are interested in music education. The winners were selected based on their skills in composition, arrangement, and performance.
The Lions. Way to clench defeat from the jaws of victory.

AQ Dining Services. Soon the Moose workers will be HECKLES TO...

make us think this, but the speaker policy causes us the most concern. The courses when the intended audience consists of men and women old enough cism exist.
ally are. We want that to happen at Aquinas—not in spite of it.

Our goal is to continue to provide an open forum for the ideas, views and entertaining and journalistically-correct student publication. The Saint is college have a plethora of opportunities in which to discover themselves.

Brianna Boedeker

Matt Kuczynski

Beth Radecki

Owen Fifield

Monica Milk

Opinion Editor

Staff Writer

By Doug Seites

By the time mid-terms have finished, students work in the middle of campus! It's incredibly time to take exams. By cranking Christmas to 11, ing the experience would try the patience of the most virtu­
I know what it's like to wait 3 hours for a 15 minute

Bigger campuses need web registration to relieve the Doug Seits has spirit. Do you? Student section begins below. All 9.

secret diary and predict that all of

the world may quite possibly end on

I guess what scares me the most

secret diary and predict that all of

the world may quite possibly end on

12/21/12, so what? The Mayans didn't

New Years parties, and in the end,

clearly. A lot of people took Tolk

'Ve're going to be just like the last
time we had a great oak in our front

I have one request: Leave me alone.

So at the risk of sounding like an

to watch TV shows they don't want

secret diary and predict that all of

the world may quite possibly end on

12/21/12, so what? The Mayans didn't

New Years parties, and in the end,

clearly. A lot of people took Tolk

'Ve're going to be just like the last
time we had a great oak in our front

I have one request: Leave me alone.

So at the risk of sounding like an

to watch TV shows they don't want

secret diary and predict that all of

the world may quite possibly end on

12/21/12, so what? The Mayans didn't

New Years parties, and in the end,

clearly. A lot of people took Tolk

'Ve're going to be just like the last
time we had a great oak in our front

I have one request: Leave me alone.

So at the risk of sounding like an

to watch TV shows they don't want

secret diary and predict that all of

the world may quite possibly end on

12/21/12, so what? The Mayans didn't

New Years parties, and in the end,

clearly. A lot of people took Tolk

'Ve're going to be just like the last
time we had a great oak in our front

I have one request: Leave me alone.

So at the risk of sounding like an

to watch TV shows they don't want

secret diary and predict that all of

the world may quite possibly end on

12/21/12, so what? The Mayans didn't

New Years parties, and in the end,

clearly. A lot of people took Tolk
Girls crying. People screaming.

And lots of blood. But this is nothing new. Twilight, in particular, is nothing new. Years and years of blood and sex and everything in between. But why? What’s so great about the books and movies?

Yes, people were blown away. But the Harry Potter phenomenon was so much more than just a series of books. People were interested in them, thought about them, talked about them. And yes, the Twilight phenomenon is similar, but it’s been overblown.

What is it, exactly, that these books have going for them? Is there anything in life that has been the same way for so long that we’re so interested in it now? Is it the fact that the stories are so familiar to us? That we can identify so easily with the characters? Or is it the fact that the stories are so different from our lives? Whatever it is, honestly, the Twilight phenomenon is nothing to jump about. You don’t want to jump about Twilight. You don’t want to act about Twilight. You don’t want to be the same kind of Twilight fan that ended up in jail.

However, while it’s undeni­able that people can be fans of the Twilight books, there remains a point where either one should be a fan of these stories, or else the whole thing is just too much. People are turning into Twilight cultists.

For years, now, Twilight has been on the rise. And for many people, it’s just not enough. They want more. They want more. They want more.

What’s the moral of the story? Perhaps it’s Robert Pattinson’s dreamy looks, or the stares of lust from the girls. Or maybe it’s the idea that his character, Edward, and Bella, played by Kristen Stewart, have something that ordinary people can’t.

Whatever it is, honestly, the Twilight phenomenon is nothing to jump about. You don’t want to jump about Twilight. You don’t want to act about Twilight. You don’t want to be the same kind of Twilight fan that ended up in jail.
Cinderella comes to Civic Theater
by Jarrett Ardell
The Saint Reporter

The 1997, Rodgers and Hammerstein musical, "Cinderella" premiered. The mini-TV was the first time Cinderella was televised via television, the dynamic story only made 80s, 90s, and 21st century Cinderella essence of the story for the holiday audience. There are版本 supply a few copies of the original 1960 version, which starred Gladys Knight and Eartha Kitt. However, it has an even more updatedHigh flying way to enjoy theatering in the Cin-

Cinderella, played by Grand Rapids native, Alyssa Bauer, and the Prince, Reid Coe, are "oh so nice together, " according to cast-member and adjunct professor at Aquinas Mike Doyle. The ensemble, Cinderella is handled capably by a humorous stepmother and step-

Cinderella's storyline was mistakenly confused with "Oprah" making it a dark musical into a delightful family-favorite adventure.

Dodge himself is cast as the charm-

Dodge described as "slapstick humor" that rescue it, " said Dodge. There will

Dodge inserted "stage mules" in the mood. "This is largely due to stage

Dodge started teaching. Cirque Du Soleil started teaching.

Amanda Peet is... there.

Seth Brodbeck delivered a tremendous

The performers are simply amazing. The

The Saint Reporter

On Friday, November 9, the Aquinas College UT

Cinderella's storyline was mistakenly confused with "Oprah" making it a dark musical into a delightful family-favorite adventure.

Dodge himself is cast as the charm-

Dodge described as "slapstick humor" that rescue it, " said Dodge. There will

Dodge inserted "stage mules" in the mood. "This is largely due to stage

Dodge started teaching. Cirque Du Soleil started teaching.

Amanda Peet is... there.

Seth Brodbeck delivered a tremendous

The performers are simply amazing. The

The Saint Reporter

On Friday, November 9, the Aquinas College UT

Cinderella's storyline was mistakenly confused with "Oprah" making it a dark musical into a delightful family-favorite adventure.

Dodge himself is cast as the charm-

Dodge described as "slapstick humor" that rescue it, " said Dodge. There will

Dodge inserted "stage mules" in the mood. "This is largely due to stage

Dodge started teaching. Cirque Du Soleil started teaching.

Amanda Peet is... there.

Seth Brodbeck delivered a tremendous

The performers are simply amazing. The

The Saint Reporter

On Friday, November 9, the Aquinas College UT

Cinderella's storyline was mistakenly confused with "Oprah" making it a dark musical into a delightful family-favorite adventure.

Dodge himself is cast as the charm-

Dodge described as "slapstick humor" that rescue it, " said Dodge. There will

Dodge inserted "stage mules" in the mood. "This is largely due to stage

Dodge started teaching. Cirque Du Soleil started teaching.

Amanda Peet is... there.

Seth Brodbeck delivered a tremendous

The performers are simply amazing. The

The Saint Reporter

On Friday, November 9, the Aquinas College UT

Cinderella's storyline was mistakenly confused with "Oprah" making it a dark musical into a delightful family-favorite adventure.

Dodge himself is cast as the charm-

Dodge described as "slapstick humor" that rescue it, " said Dodge. There will

Dodge inserted "stage mules" in the mood. "This is largely due to stage

Dodge started teaching. Cirque Du Soleil started teaching.

Amanda Peet is... there.

Seth Brodbeck delivered a tremendous
Give thanks to the sports world

By Wes Raynal

This has been a season filled with exceptional moments, from Heisman winners to bowl championships. The Red Wings have been in the running for a major trophy once again. It has been seven years since AQ College lost its Conference Meet in Northland. A strong performance at Nationals in Vancouver would be the icing on the cake.

Ganatin process turned to be a lot more secure and able to accommodate a lot more because of the field house work said Director of College Housing Randy Meernik. "The pool table has been moved up to the second floor, the weight lifting equipment has been moved into the weight lifting room. The class is adaptable and anyone can look forward to yoga and Zumba fitness classes, starting Jan. 26, and including Tai Chi, aerobics and Zumba as well.

The Regina workout room will be open for commuters, faculty and staff. It’s been made primarily for commuters, faculty and staff. There is now open floor space for classes and individual workouts. The Regina workout room will be open for commuters, faculty and staff.

The new workout room will feature a few things that you can give thanks for in addition to friends and family. First, I am thankful for the new work out facility. Second, the weight lifting equipment has been moved into the weight lifting room. Third, the new work out facility. Fourth, the new cardio section added to the workout room. Fifth, the weight lifting equipment has been moved into the weight lifting room. Sixth, the new work out facility. Seventh, the new cardio section added to the workout room.

The new work out facility will feature a few things that you can give thanks for in addition to friends and family. First, I am thankful for the new work out facility. Second, the weight lifting equipment has been moved into the weight lifting room. Third, the new work out facility. Fourth, the new cardio section added to the workout room. Fifth, the weight lifting equipment has been moved into the weight lifting room. Sixth, the new work out facility. Seventh, the new cardio section added to the workout room.

The new work out facility will feature a few things that you can give thanks for in addition to friends and family. First, I am thankful for the new work out facility. Second, the weight lifting equipment has been moved into the weight lifting room. Third, the new work out facility. Fourth, the new cardio section added to the workout room. Fifth, the weight lifting equipment has been moved into the weight lifting room. Sixth, the new work out facility. Seventh, the new cardio section added to the workout room.

The new work out facility will feature a few things that you can give thanks for in addition to friends and family. First, I am thankful for the new work out facility. Second, the weight lifting equipment has been moved into the weight lifting room. Third, the new work out facility. Fourth, the new cardio section added to the workout room. Fifth, the weight lifting equipment has been moved into the weight lifting room. Sixth, the new work out facility. Seventh, the new cardio section added to the workout room.

The new work out facility will feature a few things that you can give thanks for in addition to friends and family. First, I am thankful for the new work out facility. Second, the weight lifting equipment has been moved into the weight lifting room. Third, the new work out facility. Fourth, the new cardio section added to the workout room. Fifth, the weight lifting equipment has been moved into the weight lifting room. Sixth, the new work out facility. Seventh, the new cardio section added to the workout room.
Class is in session - Doug Seites teaches you the ABC's of College Basketball

By Samantha Winkins
The Sports Editor

Men's basketball off to hot start

The Saints men's basketball team is off to a great start this season, trimming their record to 8-3-2. The seniors have finally found a home court advantage with the bend and Grace Bible. It's going to be a treat to watch them in action. They are at the top of the WHAC. As the number one seed in the tournament Aquinas is playing together unselfishly and working their way toward victory. The team lost three seniors from last year, and they will have to find a way to connect on the floor. "We have lots of new guys and we are playing a little different," said Junior Matt Weiss. "We have a great group of players this year, and we are working hard to get better." Weiss said. The team is confident in their ability to compete with any team in the conference. "We have a strong team and we are ready to play," Weiss said. The Saints will need to work on their defense to ensure they can hold onto the lead. They will take on the Grand Rapids College this weekend and then move on to play the University of Texas at Austin. Despite their loss, Aquinas felt confident heading into the championship game. "We have had a really good season, and we are ready to compete," said Junior Midfielder Emily Wabich. The team is looking forward to their upcoming games and is excited to see what the future holds.

Soccer season comes to a disappointing end

By Dan McElroy
The Sports Editor

MEN'S SOCCER

The Men's Soccer Team finished second in the regular season with a 9-2-1 record. The team showed great improvement this season, finishing strong in the WHAC. As the number two seed in the tournament, Aquinas had a tough draw with Siena Heights. Despite the loss, Aquinas still played respectably and showed improvement throughout the season. The team will look to continue their success in the upcoming season.

WOMEN'S SOCCER

A few graduating seniors from last year, including the team's two most experienced players, have left the team. The team is now relying on younger players to fill their shoes. The team has a new coach who is working to bring in new talent and improve the team's overall performance. The team will be looking to build on their success from last season and aim for a strong finish in the WHAC.

---

The glass slipper - Big Red and the Women's Kentucky Hilltoppers are hoping to defeat the Aztecs and Gooding as they play the role of Cinderella and go dancing in March.

By Samantha Winkins
The Sports Editor

Soccer season comes to a disappointing end

By Dan McElroy
The Sports Editor

MEN'S SOCCER

The Men's Soccer Team finished second in the regular season with a 9-2-1 record. The team showed great improvement this season, finishing strong in the WHAC. As the number two seed in the tournament, Aquinas had a tough draw with Siena Heights. Despite the loss, Aquinas still played respectably and showed improvement throughout the season. The team will look to continue their success in the upcoming season.

WOMEN'S SOCCER

A few graduating seniors from last year, including the team's two most experienced players, have left the team. The team is now relying on younger players to fill their shoes. The team has a new coach who is working to bring in new talent and improve the team's overall performance. The team will be looking to build on their success from last season and aim for a strong finish in the WHAC.

---

The glass slipper - Big Red and the Women's Kentucky Hilltoppers are hoping to defeat the Aztecs and Gooding as they play the role of Cinderella and go dancing in March.

By Samantha Winkins
The Sports Editor

Soccer season comes to a disappointing end

By Dan McElroy
The Sports Editor

MEN'S SOCCER

The Men's Soccer Team finished second in the regular season with a 9-2-1 record. The team showed great improvement this season, finishing strong in the WHAC. As the number two seed in the tournament, Aquinas had a tough draw with Siena Heights. Despite the loss, Aquinas still played respectably and showed improvement throughout the season. The team will look to continue their success in the upcoming season.

WOMEN'S SOCCER

A few graduating seniors from last year, including the team's two most experienced players, have left the team. The team is now relying on younger players to fill their shoes. The team has a new coach who is working to bring in new talent and improve the team's overall performance. The team will be looking to build on their success from last season and aim for a strong finish in the WHAC.

---

The glass slipper - Big Red and the Women's Kentucky Hilltoppers are hoping to defeat the Aztecs and Gooding as they play the role of Cinderella and go dancing in March.