The committee is open to any more classes, projects, or initiatives from students," said Eberle.

Students are enthusiastic about the celebration because of how far the school has come, said Matthew Kuczynski.

The story began with the opening up of Sacred Heart College in 1872, and the school's origins serve as a foundation for the college's current identity. We want to use this 125th anniversary of the college's opening to reengage alumni and engage them in the school's activities.

Eberle is confident that this event will attract a large number of attendees, with many of the students lacking the school's heritage. "We want to make the students aware of the college's history and developments," said Eberle. "This is a great opportunity to keep people interested in the college's future."

The safety of campuses is one of the many important factors parents and students consider when choosing a college. In a recent survey, the Campus Safety team at Aquinas College found that 95 percent of students felt safe on campus.

"People have this false sense of security and safety," says Bryant. "Because they don’t have doors unlocked, you know. The doors don’t mean anything, but does it mean they don’t happen. So I think people need to think about it. The doors are locked, doors are close, doors are shut, doors are out, and they continued out."

Aquinas Campus Safety officers are trained to assess campus evacuation situations in the event of an emergency.

On Patrol

Campus Safety officers go at least on campus evacuation grid system, which is based on the Michigan City model. This model allows officers to respond quickly to any situation that may arise on campus.

There are no real trends showing increases in crime rates, according to Kwiatkowski. "There are no real new policies, to my knowledge," he said. "Every year we try to keep the base. If there are any more groups, we need more people. One campus event, we go to a full house of students." Students who utilize Campus Safety are generally satisfied with the services the officers provide. "Hilbi Marini, a campus safety officer, says, "I think the officers are very active in their communities." The officers on campus are "hovering dangerously close to a recession.""
Allow me to introduce myself

Talent is packed with new potential. There are a lot of smart kids here, so let me tell you what I know about the people who read books to think about life. I'm glad to see the girls are growing up and showing that every fall, to buy a good book and debate over the next movie to watch. The entertainment section of the paper is always full of great movies, and the people here at AQ want to hear about the latest. I'm glad to see you're getting ready to kick off a brand new semester, a brand new year, and a brand new look for the paper. It's been around for over 100 years, and I know that everyone that reads the paper is just as excited as I am to get back to school.

It helps us escape from the reality of our everyday lives and allows us to relax and unwind. It is a way for us to connect with others and share our experiences. Entertainment is a powerful medium that can have a significant impact on our emotions, thoughts, and actions. It can help us to understand ourselves and the world around us better. It can inspire us to take action, to learn, to grow, and to change. Entertainment is an integral part of our lives, and we should all make sure to take the time to enjoy it.
